

doubt is very natural because you are trying to use the wrong instrument to gauge something that it is not capable to understand the mind cannot understand the heart the heart can sense the being but cannot understand the state of nomind the mystic is one seeking subtler layers searching from the gross...the obvious... from what you can see... then going to a subtler level...feeling... drinking that which cannot be seen... diving deeper
 trying to reach the unknowable

 the moment you fall upon truth there is only doubt everything is doubt because it is such a new universe that you simply shake your head and say...really ?

 the mind...the heart... whatsoever you know... the moment you have this experience this whole foundation is shaken and all that remains is doubt you ask a person...are you enlightened ? he will hesitate... really ? maybe i am not enlightened...maybe i am just dreaming... how do you know you are awake ?

you fall asleep at night and you have a beautiful dream that you become the king of ukraine and you are riding on your horse and the chariots are moving everything is perfectly good do you know that you are sleeping when you are dreaming ? if you knew you were sleeping when you are dreaming... you would be awake !!

understand this there is a greater awakening yes...the mind will doubt it will doubt everything because that is its function i am not against doubting doubt is a projection of the mind so let it do its work but to transcend the mind... to fall into the unknown...that mystery... nothing can be said about it somebody who knows the truth and the light is filtered within he knows its presence but he cannot utter it he cannot take you beyond the doubt of the mind it is simply impossible truth is a vertical experience a vertical experience of light the mind moves horizontal truth moves vertical they do not even know each other doubt is perfectly good most masters speak about the value of doubt neti neti neti neti neti neti keep doubting...keep doubting...keep doubting...keep doubting... doubt everything...question everything... really question everything ! what you see...is it true ?

 what you know...is it true ?
 what you have been taught...is it true ?
