

trust existence that has given birth to that child it is not your child...

existence has brought life to this earth and life is carrying the meaning of life within it it has to...

that is why it is living...

understand what the child is carrying...

your whole engagement with the child will be of respect and love you will watch the child mystically and keep a watchful eye...

that the mystical qualities within that new life force is given full opportunity to express itself never force anything on a child...

because a child does not have a voice to reject it he is only trying to please you... because you gave a candy for coming first in class you are selling your children for candy you have given a reward you have already set a standard the child wants to make mummy happy he wants to make his teachers happy he will fight and struggle to come first just to please you...

change the value structures through deeper wisdom actually through love of the mother the mother knows

do not push the children and you will see a beautiful flowering i am not educated at all do i look foolish to you ?

maybe in the world i cannot compete but i have even taken my physical body to the world and i have proved to excel...

just because of my intelligence that came from within intelligence has a certain quality of sharpness... of knowing...not knowledge please do not try to do anything to bring up children leave them alone

they have brought a treasure let it mature...and you will see the flowering of the child because nature is taking care of the child...

life is taking care of the child we should stop all this education system it is totally ridiculous what does it matter if two and two is four ?

what does it matter ?

what does it matter if genghis khan was a barbaric person ?

who wants to know about hitler ?

you do not even know how to breathe...

what information can you have if you know the whole history of mankind but if you do not know your own breath ?

if you do not know how to love a woman ?

the whole education does not teach you the inner sky so all education is meaningless maximum four years is my suggestion and that too not at an early age educate them after seven or eight give them time to mature in their inner puberty younger age of children is a very impressionable time the first seven years of your life...

the quality of your inner restfulness will determine your intelligence let the children become acquainted with their physical body... with their emotional body...with their puberty...the growth of hormones...

let them become naturally acquainted with it then you start feeding them with little bit of outer knowledge i think seven till eleven...maximum...
