

nothing wrong in drugs at all your whole body is a drug all chemicals are within the body induce it correctly and try to remove the toxic effects use it as an experience and a window and a glimpse perfectly okay

a meditator can use drugs very effectively anything that takes you out of the mind... and gives you a little window...a new kind of perception... is always valuable at least you are thinking out of the box ! no harm as long as it does not become addictive in that sense i am not against drugs ego is a drug power is a drug anger is a drug and they blind you and they harm others that is worse

a politician on his power trip... subdues the world...dominates others now you are not harming yourself... but you are harming other people !!

drug addicts never harm others i have found them to be very humble people they just want their little dose and fall out of the mind you have to be intelligent because the world is very boring and monotonous it has no future...until you find the path inward this body mind has no future but the grave and the intelligent person straightaway understands... same brushing the teeth...same going to the toilet... same wearing the clothes and same wife... how much different can this world get ?

you are an intelligent person enjoy the drug i am very happy !
you are becoming intelligent but use it very consciously... prepare yourself for that experience... keep your body healthy...eat the correct food so that the toxins are removed gain the experience...flush the toxin...be healthy prepare yourself for that experience and enjoy totally create the right atmosphere... then you will not become addicted... then you have created a device for that experience the moment you take a drug consciously...with a certain inner reason... you can become very intelligent do not take it mechanically use it like a deep spiritual experience and a meditation then you will respect it you can respect even poison and drink it correctly nothing is harmful unconsciousness can harm you in a million ways any kind of thing that you are putting into the body consciously cannot harm you because you are watching the experience you will learn something out of that experience and you will become a much more colourful being create the right atmosphere and enjoy it a deeply better than smoking a stupid cigarette certain drugs heighten your consciousness...they make you alert certain are depressant...certain are awaking so try those that are awakening if you feel depressed when you take a particular drug it is not working for you