

the tree does not struggle... it simply relaxes in the spring and the rain comes and the air becomes fragrant the overflowing energy turns into flowers and fruits and fragrance it is so utterly naturally settled into being just taste what i am saying if you understand it...just drink this silently it is a taste of utter acceptance of yourself please do not try to do anything additional whatsoever you will do you will be working with the branches you cut one leaf...this branch you do not like... this twig is a little bit bent...that leaf is getting yellow... this one is too big...that one is a bit small... some leaf is going to get brown...some is going to die... what can we do ?

that is not the source of life the source is so deep within... the source is creating so many different forms and leaves the mother of being is not complaining existence is not complaining we are looking at each other because we have been taught to achieve...judge...and condemn and that is the way people are fighting in the world they are teaching you how to fight with others slowly you start fighting within yourself the moment you start judging others and comparing with others that same quality comes within you you start judging yourself and comparing with others... it is bound to happen you will be filled with that same poison it is so beautiful to see so many different people and everybody has the right to be the way they want to be just accept that everybody is so beautifully unique i am not just saying it... i just find the beauty in every person so unique...so colourful... just imagine a thousand people exactly the same just imagine a thousand nishkams singing the same song you will die !

when nishkam met me for the first time he asked me i have to achieve these goals how do i achieve my goals ? i have to get this job...i must do this job...i must get it... he had very penetrating questions i need to achieve this...i have to attain all these futures...what do i do about it ?

he asked me in moscow i said...listen i have achieved nothing...i am a loser if you want me to reply you how to lose your job...very easy for me ! i can show you all the ways to lose your job i myself have no job but i can find you ways to lose all your jobs perhaps that can become a new qualification... you become an utter loser...like me !

and utter losers have a great value today so few people in the world are utter losers very few people are utter losers and totally accepting...yes i am a loser even the loser is not accepting...he is afraid of the word loser... he feels guilty about it...i am celebrating it i am a loser job...no job...i cannot even find a job anymore ! an utter loser and totally content i do not want to be good for anything in this world
